MARRIAGE TANGLE PREVENTS ENTRY OF ITALIAN BEAUTY

War Veteran, She Says She Came to Wed Is Here to Meet Her, but Has a Wife.

There is much mystery still to be cleared away in the case of beautiful Miss Frida Glovetti, who arrived from Italy last Monday and is held at Ellis Island while immigration officials seek to learn the truth about her matrimonial prospects.

She says she was sent for by he flance, George Abbott Hoke, Chy Attorney of Stillwater, Okla. He, or the other hand, is reported to have told the immigration authorities last engaged to her she had failed to come when he expected her and he had given her up and married another But the immigration authorities say he offered to take care of her if she came and to guarantee she would not become a public charge.

Hoke is quoted as saying he has lately learned that a private investigation of his married status has been

But there is much conflict of state Yesterday, the girl told a Special Board of Inquiry at Ellis Island that she had been engaged to Hoke for three years, having met him in Rome, where he served with the American Army. She said she got her passport a year ago, but delayed sailing because the Italian quota was exhausted.

She said she had received letters from him up to the middle of last July, when he sent her a prepaid ticket and said he would meet her at the pier. She said she took better quarters on the ship, the Giulio Cesare, so that she would be in the best of health and spirits on her arrival. She had a suite of three rooms and was richly dressed. She had $300

On the way over, she said she received radio messages from Hoke saying he was stopping at the Pennsylvania Hotel and would be at the She expected to be married immediately, she said.

One of the apparent discrepancies that interests the Ellis Island authorities is a matter of dates. If Hoke knew last April that he could not marry the girl, why, the officials would like to know, did he send her transportation in July and let her think he would be ready to marry her on her arrival?

It is believed the young woman will learn to-day whether she is to be admitted or not. Hoke called at Ellis Island yesterday but was not allowed to see her because there is a rule against interviews with arriving allens until they have had their of ficial hearing. He was told to return to-day.

At the Pennsylvania Hotel this morning, it was stated that no man was registered there by the name of George Abbott Hoke.
